With a minimum of fanfare and publicity, "SIERRA SHADOWS" has emerged as one of the most colorful and finest guest ranches in Nevada.

Located in Genoa, Nevada's oldest settlement, SIERRA SHADOWS is nestled along the base of the eastern slope of the majestic Sierra. Genoa is rich in the history of the early gold rush and the great silver Comstock era.

As early as 1848 this locality was a camping spot on an emigrant trail to California, and in 1851 a permanent trading post was established. In 1856 Orson Hyde laid out a townsite and Genoa was born. During 1860-61 the Pony Express ran through here. The town grew with the development of the Comstock after 1859. It was during this period that the main house of SIERRA SHADOWS was built by Stephen A. Kinsey, nephew of Col. Reese, founder of the original trading post.

Set well back from Genoa Lane, surrounded by spacious lawns and century old Black Walnut and Mountain Ash trees, SIERRA SHADOWS commands a sweeping view of the pine covered Sierra to the west, and the historic Carson Valley and Pine Nut Mountains to the east.

It is in this atmosphere of historic surroundings and breath taking scenic beauty that SIERRA SHADOWS offers you the ultimate in relaxation and entertainment.

For the Spring, Summer and Fall seasons, Minor and Maxine Kelso, the owners of SIERRA SHADOWS, have provided for their guests facilities for SWIMMING, TENNIS, RIDING, A PUTTING GREEN, SKEET SHOOTING, and ARCHERY. Also, Barbecues, cook-outs and a nightly campfire under the stars, all featuring the flavor of the "old west."
